Dear Ma'am/Sir

I trust this letter finds you well. I am writing to formally request your approval and support for organizing a Financial Wellness Seminar or a Booth activity for your Faculty, Recognizing the importance of financial well-being and the role of insurance in securing one's financial future, we believe that such a seminar or booth activity would be a valuable investment that aligns with your commitment to their overall welfare and contributes to a more resilient and engaged workforce.

The primary objectives of this activity include:

- Financial Wellness Education: To provide your faculty with essential knowledge and skills related to personal finance, including budgeting, saving, investing, and debt management.
- Introduction to Insurance: To educate participants on the various types of insurance, their importance, and how insurance coverage can contribute to financial security and risk mitigation.
